

Getting a Secret Security Clearance

A guide to gathering information for the online questionnaires

Once your organisation confirms that you need a secret security clearance, you need to fill out two online questionnaires. The questionnaires are part of the security vetting process for a clearance.

Use the tips and checklists in this guide to help you identify and find the information you need for the questionnaires. If you gather the information before you go online, you'll find it much easier and quicker to do the questionnaires.

About the questionnaires

The Initial Questionnaire comes first and takes about 1 hour to finish. It asks you to:

- provide some basic personal information
- consent to the New Zealand Security Intelligence Service (NZSIS) accessing your personal information.

The Security Questionnaire comes next and asks for information on your background. It covers the last 10 years, or back to age 18 if you are under 28 years.

Set aside 4–5 hours to complete this questionnaire. You can save your information and enter it over a few sessions.

How you get access to the questionnaires

You'll get an email with a login link for the Initial Questionnaire. You must log in within 5 days to set your password.

After you complete the Initial Questionnaire and the NZSIS confirms it, you'll get another email with a link to the Security Questionnaire.

Aim to complete both questionnaires within 2 weeks of receiving the first email or sooner if you can.

Where to get more information about the vetting process for your clearance

To understand more about the vetting process: what it's about, why it's important, and what to expect, go to: protectivesecurity.govt.nz/personnel-security/clearances/getting-a-clearance

If you have questions about the information you need to provide in the questionnaires, talk to the organisation that is sponsoring your application for a security clearance. If you don't know who is sponsoring your clearance or who to contact, check with your manager.

Tips to help you gather the right information

Personal information on other people	The best way to get the information you need on other people is to ask them directly. When you can't ask directly, try: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• asking other friends or family• using family records, such as birth, death, or marriage certificates; or passports• checking public records, such as registers of births, deaths, and marriages.
